I may not have much, but at least I have my strength. Or so I liked to think, yet I find myself flat on my back with a cold, feverishly moaning and groaning. Unnnnh. Unnnnh. Through sheer force of will, I wrote my weekly story—the one in this volume with the big crab—just under deadline. Scarily enough, I was so woozy when I wrote it that I don't remember working on the story at all! Yeeaargh!!! It's a tough job, people...

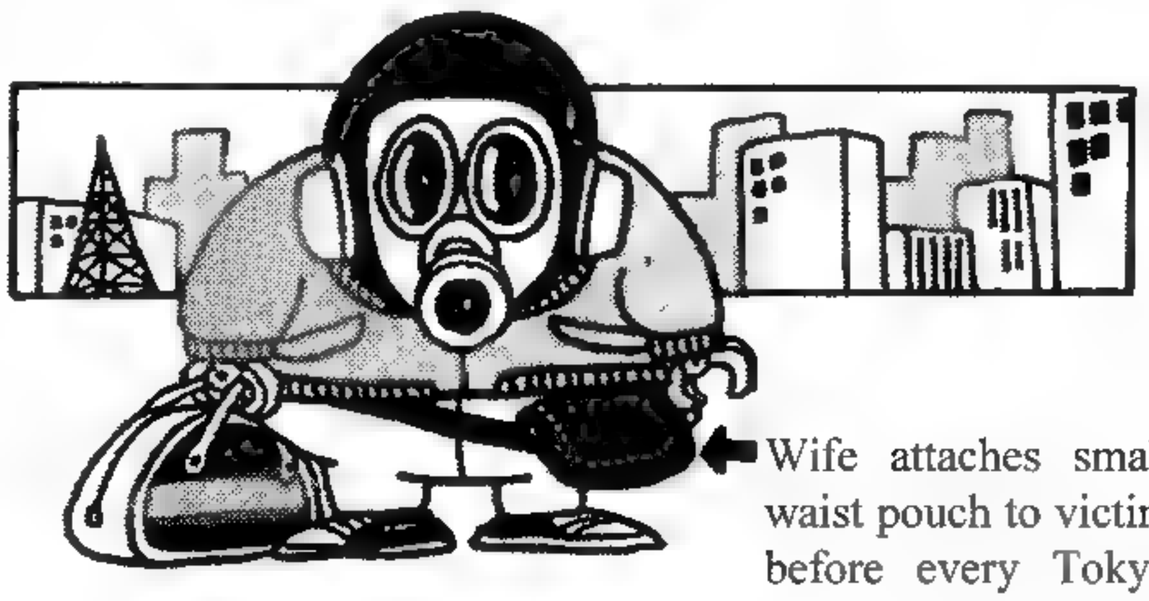
DUMMIYAMA DAILY



Wife attaches small waist pouch to victim before every Tokyo trip to avoid further wallet loss.

AKIRA TORIYAMA LOSES WALLET

November X. Dumb manga artist from Aichi Prefecture, Akira Toriyama (27), went to Tokyo to appear on NHK radio.

However, Toriyama, who was panicking about his upcoming radio debut, dropped his wallet on the way to the studio.

The wallet contained the victim's driver's license and the outrageous sum of $500! (If you think about it for a minute, this is just enough to pay for the train and the hotel. He's actually quite the cheapskate.)

In fact, throughout the radio broadcast, Toriyama could be heard to mutter "Five hundred dollars...that's like 2,000 video games, 1,000 cups of instant ramen..."

Toriyama was able to board the train home with the money from his NHK appearance, and he began desperately trying to think of an excuse to tell his wife about the wallet.

In a cruel twist of fate, the train arrived at Nagoya Station before he had had a chance to concoct a suitable fable.

Just that day, his wife had passed on a $30 scarf and instead purchased one for $10.

Imagine the scarf you could buy for $500.

Akira Toriyama Caught Red-Handed in Crime of Perversion?

October X. While working at home, Akira Toriyama (27), discovered that he had forgotten the meaning of the word "bohemian" and immediately picked up a dictionary.

As he mumbled the sounds "ba...bee...bo..." he came across the word "boobies" and began to tremble. Thinking that there might be even lewder words to be found, he began thumbing through his dictionary and totally forgot what word he was looking up. So sad.

Dumb Manga Artist Loses It over Honda Civic Turbo

DUMMIYAMA DAILY

October X. Rural Aichi Prefecture resident and manga artist Akira Toriyama (27) bought a Honda Civic upon its debut and was still boasting about it, despite bad reviews when the new Honda Civic Turbo was announced the following year.

The dumb manga artist Akira Toriyama, now enraged, began writing "TURBO" on the side of his car whenever it was featured in his manga Dr. Slump.

Other manga artists in the area, upon witnessing this despicable behavior, began to laugh at him and call him names.

Eventually, they asked him to bow to the Turbo and admit the folly of his ways.

However, Toriyama ignored their request. At this moment, he is reportedly at home sitting astride the garden wall, upon which he has written "Civic Turbo."

Akira Toriyama Acquires Birds

Akira Toriyama (27), seeing significance in the fact that the Japanese word for bird, namely "tori," was part of his name, began to think (rather dumbly) that perhaps one of his ancestors had been aided by a bird in some way, and so he bought five birds, just like that.

One in particular, a cockatiel, was very large and was said to bear a strong resemblance to Toriyama himself.

Furthermore, recently, even the bird's character has come to resemble that of its owner.

When the door to its cage is opened, the cockatiel first flaps its wings, then flies straight into a window and crashes to the ground.

Akira Toriyama Stricken by Incurable Illness!?

Recently, reports that Akira Toriyama (27) rarely visits the barbershop have been streaming into Dummiyama Daily's newsroom.

A reporter sent to the hinterlands of Aichi Prefecture found that Toriyama goes to the barber twice a year, if that.

Although Toriyama had recently been praised for his new, close-cropped look, it has become apparent that he is actually going bald.

Toriyama himself vehemently denies charges of encroaching baldness.

However, on December XX, one of our reporters spied Toriyama eating seaweed, which is known to strengthen hair, in secret from his wife, and Toriyama confessed that some thinning had occurred.

According to the deposition he gave in our interview room, Toriyama had "planned to go in secretly for hair treatments, but [he] couldn't bring [himself] to spend the money and decided to eat lots of seaweed in secret to prevent further hair loss." He then hung his head and wept openly.

Akira Toriyama Enters Car Race!

And Totally Loses!

DUMMIYAMA DAILY

December X. Akira Toriyama (27) participated in a automotive Grand Prix in Shinjuku.

Basically, he was playing the video game "Pole Position."

His competitors were his editor Torishima, Makusa the Octopus-ball lady, and Tsuneo Matsumoto, Chairman of the Toriyama Preservation Society.

After his competitors scored high points with ease, it was Toriyama's turn at the wheel.

With sweaty hands, Toriyama gripped the wheel and pushed the quarter, hot from his grip, into the game machine.

START!

BOOOOOOONG!

Immediately, Toriyama rear-ended the car in front of him.

Gathering his wits about him, Toriyama pressed the pedal to the floor!

BROOOOOOOOM

BOOOOOOOONG!

Once again, he rammed into the car ahead of him.

Enraged, Toriyama turned to the sniggering onlookers and shouted, "Th-This is my first time playing this game!

"I'm the only one among you who drives a real car!

"Torishima, you don't even have your license!"

To which the three responded, "You came in last!!"

Toriyama then slumped to the floor in despair. In the more than ten races that followed, Toriyama, failing to come in first even once, returned to Nagoya a defeated man. So sad.

AKIRA TORIYAMA SPEAKS ON LOCAL DEVELOPMENT IN AICHI PREFECTURE

December X. Today, at a press conference, Akira Toriyama spoke in earnest for 30 whole minutes about his home-town in Aichi Prefecture.

"I'm Toriyama. Everyone says that where I come from is totally rural, but it's really quite a hip town.

"The local coffee shop, Hip Coffee Shop X, is so trendy that you'd be hard-pressed to find a place like it even in Tokyo!

"I mean, the decor inside is so tropical. The menu's all in French, I think. The ornamental plants are huge, the tables are made of white wood, and all the beer is imported!

"See!? It's not really the boondocks after all!"

When one of our reporters visited the coffee shop to investigate the claims, he found it to be an elegant establishment that might be found in the U.S., but to his surprise, the house next door was growing eggplants! A farm tractor drove by in front of the shop, which is surrounded mostly by fields. And someone had put a hoe in the umbrella stand out front.

As for the clientele, the hip coffee shop was filled with rubes.
